Besides which, the said William Davis claims a Share in the said Partnership, and makes considerable Demands on the said Partnership, and hath, to establish the same, preferred two Bills in Chancery against the said Richard Woolley, William Squire, and John Thomson, and others.

The said Richard Woolley delivers in the foregoing Accounts, Inventories, and Particulars, with all Submission and Obedience to the Direction of the late Act of Parliament in that Behalf; and the same contains the best and most ample Discovery which the said Richard Woolley is or hath been able to make of all and every Part of his Estates and Effects, and how the same hath been from Time to Time altered, alienated, and transferred, since the First Day of January, 1730: But the said Richard Woolley fearing the Consequence of any Omission or Mistake, which might possibly happen in the framing of the several Accounts, in Regard he had not the keeping of some of the Accounts himself, and was often in the Countries upon Business with the Manufacturers, and of his own; and being obliged, according to Agreement, to intrust the keeping of the Accounts to others, and not intending any Concealment whatsoever, the said Richard Woolley craves Leave and hopes, that if upon any further Recollection or Discovery he shall be able to find out any Omission or Error, (which at present he's ignorant of) he may be permitted to explain the same by a subsequent Account before both Houses of Parliament.
